ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH TO BUILD A RECTORY

The congregation of St. Albans Church of England have decided to build a Rectory for their Rector, the Rev. Mr. Macmorine and his family, and thus fill a much needed want.

The building fund campaign was only commenced a few days ago but already some splendid results have been obtained. The sum required is $1000, and the subscriptions promised to date and already in hand amount to $510.

Judge Disney has kindly consented to act as Hon. Treas. of the fund. Any members of the Church of England or other friends who are desirous of helping on this worthy object may hand their donations to the Judge or either of the wardens and same will be very thankfully received.

All donations will be acknowledged through this paper.

The subscriptions to date are as follows:

The Funeral of Mrs. Morgan

The funeral of the late Mrs. Robert Morgan was largely attended. The service was held in St. Albans Church where were gathered the majority of the Welsh people of this town and district, the members of the Knights of Pythias and relatives, until the hall was filled to overflowing. The quite quiet demeanour of the deceased had made her beloved by all who knew her. She was always ready to help in every good work and had lent generous assistance to the activities of St. Albans Church, and her presence there will be missed. Both in the church and at the grave her fellow countrymen raised their voices in the sweet hymns of their native land, the service being closed by a beautiful Welsh hymn "Bydd Myrdd o ryfeddodan."

"Fether in Thy gracious keeping Leave me now Thy servant sleeping."

At the request of the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Alberta Sunning's Lodge No. 30 A. F. & A. M. will be a Memorial Service in memory of George Past. Grand Master King Edward VII in their Lodge room on Saturday 15th at 2 P. M. All members are requested to appear in Regalia. A cordial invitation is extended to visiting brethren.

PROPERTY HOLDERS HOLD AN INCORPORATION MEETING

Boundaries are Extended

Mayor Cameron received a telegram this morning in response to the "phone" message sent to the Premier on Thursday. The telegram read as follows:

"Order-in-council has passed extending boundaries of Coleman to include area mentioned in our letter of the 22nd ultimo."

Signed, J. PERRIE, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works.

The above telegram speaks of the annexation of "Slav town" to Coleman, and it paves the way for immediate incorporation of the consolidated villages into one town. The council is to be congratulated upon bringing about the desired result in so far as the proceedings have gone, and it is to be hoped that all citizens of both villages will now unite and make their paramount interests which they hold in common, go towards the up-building of the natural centre of the Pass.

EDITORIAL NOTES

West Coleman has been annexed to Coleman. What next? Incorporation.

Rutherford's premier canine teeth stand him in good stead during this trying ordeal.

One strong point in favor of incorporation is the centralization of business. Scattered business centres are weakening.

The Board of Trade in Coleman is to be congratulated on its personnel of officers. A live Board of Trade always certifies to a live town.

The Dominion government will issue, it is stated, a proclamation, setting aside May 20th as a day to be held sacred, in memory of our late King Edward VII.

The great activity in building circles and the increasing volume of business done in our stores, is a sure indication that we are making giant strides towards townhood.

Often the most needed, most valued improvements are the most pernicious to those who desire to have them. Incorporation to Coleman would be no blessing in disguise, but a thorough business proposition from the day of its inception. Yet note the snags and jags in its path. Its measure of approach to the goal is to be gauged by its hard attainment.

The wisdom of the provincial government in appointing the three license commissioners from the province as a whole, has never been doubted. But their respective places of about calls for some light. One hails from Edmonton, another from Olds, and the third from Banff. The whole southern country is again overlooked, except by the fact that Banff is in the extreme northern part of Rocky Mountain constituency. To travel from Banff to Coleman means two days travelling. A person goes through eight different constituencies to get to his destination. In fact there is no electoral district like it in Heaven above, earth beneath or the waters under it. In this it probably bears some relation to the Alberta government.

Lille Notes

Rev. L. McColi was the preacher here on Sunday evening last.

Born — Lille on May 10th to Mr. & Mrs. C. Faure, a son.

The new house being built for Mr. Faure is nearing completion, and will be ready in a short time, for occupancy.

Why don't the W. C. C. Co. build a few more houses in Lille, of a similar size to the one we think they would readily find for the same, at a good rental?

The Lille football team visited Asbury on Saturday last, the game resulting in a victory for Lille. By the way, Lille team includes some first class players, who have been members of the leading football teams in the old country. We also note that the Lille team have got new uniforms, so we expect great things in the future, for those interested in the game.

The Carbondale Lumber company have opened up an office in West Coleman and are prepared to supply any town in the Pass with rough or dressed lumber at special prices.

A touch of rheumatism, or a twinge of neuralgia, whatever the trouble is, Chamberlain's Liniment drives away the pain at once and eases the complaint quickly. First application gives relief. Sold by all Dealers.

O'Brien Speaks At Frank

C. M. O'Brien M.P.P. for this constituency addressed a number of his supporters and business men of Frank on Wednesday afternoon at Frank. The meeting took place on a public street and a biscuit box was used as a platform.

Mr. O'Brien outlined his work in the House, saying that he had introduced a fortnightly bill. This bill has already received its second reading. The member states that he was seeking to get all he could for this constituency among the things being better roads and bridges, and a road over the bluff at Coleman.

He said that he had been unjustly criticized for his action in voting first for the government and later for not voting at all.

He voted with the government so as to open up the discussion on the Great Waterways contract. But when he found the discussion opened up, it was unnecessary for him to vote either in the government or opposition as he was in no governments.

The genial member stated that he was on the legal committee and for this appointment he was seated at the Coleman Law as that paper thought he was too ignorant of legal affairs.

But the result of the member's work on that committee showed he was not ignorant at all. The editor of the Coleman Miner was a friend of his "N.L."

Following it a verbatim report of a short portion of Mr. O'Brien's speech.

"The Law of Values is hardly understood by everyone to-day except those who are engaged in the Socialistic movement.

Our teachers have not the faintest idea of the Law of Values. Values is not measured by inches or paces but by time, thus it is a social question.

Time shows the value of labor, which is produced brain, brawn and muscle of the slave worker.

I was brought up in a backward district of Ontario. My parents were Methodists. Our township was made up wholly of Methodists and Catholics. But a Methodist farmer would turn his horse into his neighbors out field, he would cut the ears off his neighbors calves. They would hug and howl. I was brought up a Methodist and none of us knew the law of value, we had not joined the Socialistic Movement."

Several questions were asked the member which he answered in a roundabout manner that left a decided impression on his hearers, that he was more soaked up with Socialism than with the question of the day.

A vote was afterwards tendered to him which he indignantly refused

WHY MEAT IS HIGHER NOW

Nearly twenty-eight years ago the first and only trainload of Texas grass cattle that ever brought $7 a hundred pounds in the market were sold at that price in St. Louis. To be more specific, C. C. Slaughter, the veteran cattleman of Texas, now a resident of Dallas, shipped a trainload of his high-grade steers from his plain country ranch traversed by the Texas & Pacific Railroad in Western Texas, to that market, and they arrived and were sold on May 31, 1882. The cattle were sold by Hunter, Evans & Co., one of the pioneer commission firms there, St. Louis at that time being the principal market for Texas cattle.

The junior member of that firm in 1882 is a visitor in Salt Antonio on the person of M. P. Buel of Chicago, who is still identified with the live stock commission trade at the Union Stock Yards there.

This sale at $7 was made before the big packing houses were established, though at present 3000 to 5000 cattle can be handled in a day. The cattle were bought by George Hammond, shipped to Hammond, Ind., and there butchered to supply the customers of what afterward became known as the Hammond Packing Company. The sale verifies the statement made by Mr. Buel in this connection that a short supply of desirable cattle inevitably leads to an advance in price. In his capacity as a government of the producers' interest on the Cull side of the market, he is of the opinion that the question of supply and demand is the dominating factor in prices and clinches the argument by asking why the packers are paying $10 a hundred for hogs now, if, as the anti-meat-eating crusaders would have us believe, they are organized to a degree that makes them also the dictators of the price.

Discussing the factors which have led to the high price of meat and the remedial agencies which must be applied he said Saturday:

INCREASED CONSUMPTIVE DEMAND

"Present values of farm products, including meats, are at a high point, resulting in general complaint being made by the consumers throughout this country and the world. Much has been said on this increased cost of living and the live stock interests has received, perhaps more criticism than any other of the food products. Statistics will show that meats are lower in comparison with many of the food products and that the advance has no kept pace with such products as eggs, butter, and, in fact, everything, except, possibly, potatoes, which are lower in the large markets at this time than they have been for a number of years. The present high prices are the natural result of an increased consumptive demand and a falling off in production. Especially is this applicable the live stock industry, of which forty years' experience prompts me to a conclusion that during that period, whenever the prices obtained were not profitable to the stockraisers, then receipt in the market centers were reduced to a point that resulted in enhanced values. Statistics of receipts of live stock in Chicago alone show lighter receipts and higher prices than have prevailed for some years. There cannot be much in the statements that large packing concerns control prices. If such were the case hogs would not be selling in Chicago to-day for $10 a hundred, live weight, sheep and lambs from $9 to $9.75 a hundredweight, and cattle from $9 to $11 a hundredweight."

MORE FARMERS NEEDED

"What is needed at the present time is more encouragement for people to adopt farm life, thereby becoming producers of necessary food products for the increasing population, not only of the United States but of the world. The shortage of cattle at this time is no surprise to the cattlemen. They have well known for twenty years that the time was at hand when the breaking up of large cattle interests on the plains would result in a shortage. The farmers and feeders of cattle throughout the corn belt—referred to such States as Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas—have depended almost entirely upon getting their supply of feeding cattle from the Western ranch owners."

"No encouragement has been offered to the cattle business by either Federal or State government. The cattlemen undertook a year ago, at the revision of the tariff, to have the tax remain on imported hides, which would give a little protection to the usual quota of newspaper men."

cattle raiser. Congress denied this protection and insisted that they were better serving the masses of the population by putting hides on the free list, doubtless believing that shoes would be cheaper, as was contended by the shoe dealers. This, however, has proved to be a false conclusion. The cost of production which is so large increased to-day because of the enhanced value of lands, the grain and the labor that is necessary to fit cattle for butchers, is accountable to a great extent for the shortage now existing and means high-priced meats until the production has increased at least sufficiently to better supply the increased demand for the increased population.

Gatle Men Says People Live Too Well To-Day

Cost Of Raising Beef Has Advanced In Five Years.

washington, March 29 (Special)—Earlier in the hearings before the Senate Committee on the High Cost of Living, a retailer said that the moving pictures shows were one cause of the advance. To-day Much MacKenzie of Colorado, Texas and South Dakota, threw the blame on the telephone. He declared that the telephone is the curse of the present century, because it has taught people to live too well. He said that the cost of living has gone up, because we are too well off and that now people will eat only the best portions of a beef.

A few minutes earlier he paid a compliment to packers, saying that the cattlemen are only able to dispose of certain of their cattle to the packers, as it was impossible to market them elsewhere, and if it were not for the packers, saying that the cattlemen are only able to dispose of certain of their cattle to the packers, as it was impossible to market them elsewhere and if it were not for the packers many a cattlemen would have to go out of business.

Mr. MacKenzie had just returned from a trip abroad and was not yet posted on actual prices, but he managed to tell the committee of the difference in Canadian and American gaged cattle, and declared that it is cheaper to graze cattle than to keep them through the winter months and feed them on corn. He said he has a ranch in Texas from which he shipped about 3,500 head of cattle last year and another in South Dakota from which he shipped about 4,000 head. For a number of years he said that the price of cattle had varied but little, although last year there was a slight increase in prices, which have gradually gone up. Four or five years ago cattle sold for six cents and now they are about eight cents. However, he said, it costs more to run a ranch now. It costs from $5 to 40 cents to feed a steer, corn has gone up; wages are higher, and in fact everything needed on a range costs more. On the whole it costs from 38 to 50 per cent more now to produce the beef than it did ten years ago. Moreover, he said, many of the cattlemen would be bankrupt if it were not for their loan, for that has increased in value immensely.

The witness prefaced his remarks by trying to put some of the blame on the railroads, saying that in September, 1904, he ordered cars to be used in November, but was forced to wait six weeks, thus forcing him to hold his cattle until after the panic and suffering a loss on them of $1 per 100.

Mr. MacKenzie said that he sells almost entirely to the packers, but that the packers do not maintain a set price, but that one firm bids against the other—in fact, there is no concerted action on either side to control prices. Hides, he said, are the most valuable item about the cattle, and since the passage of the tariff the price of these advanced considerably.

He declared that he was a member of several organizations of cattlemen, but that there is no form of trust among them, and that they do nothing by which to control the price. He assigned the high cost of supplies, more especially the corn. He cited an incident of a man who sold his hay and corn rather than feed it to his cattle because he realized more on it. To keep cattle through the winter and feed them, he said, is to lose money.

At the beginning of the hearing this morning Senator Smoot read a letter from Senator Simmons in which the latter Senator denied that he had resigned from the committee because he was a disgusted with work accomplished. The hearing to-day was not attended by the full committee and practically only the audit committee was present.

The whole license was granted to Frank, but the application for a change of premises to the Gayette block was refused, the Board also states that is their decision to grant only one license to one individual in one municipality.

BOWSER IS MISSED.

WHOLE TOWN ON THE WIRE.

Mrs. Bowser Recalls Where She Might Have Been Better—He Returns From "Shober Old Dubs" Club—Removes Recalled—Yanked to Bed.

By M. QUAD.
[Copyright, 1906, by Associated Literary Press.]

AT five minutes to 6 o'clock the other evening Mrs. Bowser began listening for the footfalls of Mr. Bowser.

An unusual number came along, but his voice was different.

The agent of a soap warranted to prevent clothes from wearing out rang the basement bell, but Mr. Bowser came not.

A tramp called and asked for a dime to help him to get to South America with, but the old familiar footstep sounded not.

Six o'clock and Mr. Bowser.

The winter winds moaned mournfully, and Mrs. Bowser thought of the distilled by stars and autos.

A quiet knock and the cook came upstairs to say that she had seen many mysteries in her life, but none to compare with this.

Was the Black Hand in it? Had Mr. Bowser received threatening letters and refused to come down with the dough?

Six-thirty, and no step and no Bowser. The meaning of the wind thickened. So did the plot. It was just possible that Mr. Bowser had called a street car conductor a liar, or that both had got off the car to have it out, but if not that what could it be?

At 7 o'clock Mrs. Bowser went down to dinner alone, but she had no appetite. She sat at the table and thought of how she might have saved on the gas and coal, how she had paid 35 cents for stockings when she could have made the twenty-two cent ones do, and presently she found tears streaming down her cheeks. She loved Mr. Bowser, but until that moment she had not realized how much.

The cook came in and by way of comfort said she had heard of who failed to come home one night, and after three days' search he was found in the rear room of a cigar store. He had gone there and made a kick about their three for lives, and they had sawed his head off. Depend upon it, Mr. Bowser was lying somewhere with his head separated from his body. Nevermore would he come home to kick the front gate open.

POLICE HAD NO TIDINGS OF BOWSER.

AT 7:15 o'clock Mrs. Bowser went upstairs and called police headquarters on the telephone. The reply was:

"No; we have no murders here, but we are exploring every minute."

"With you up later?"

At 7:30 the call came. An old woman had been run over by a brewery wagon, a boy had shot himself in the hand, a married man had eloped, an old gentleman had broken his neck while trying to bow to a chorus girl in the street, but nothing to explain the Bowser mystery.

"Did he get swizzled now and then?"

"Was he a happy home?"

"Had she Mrs. Bowser, called him a liar just as he was leaving home that morning?"

"Had she any suspicions that he was stuck on some other woman?"

"Had he seemed of his head for a few days past?"

Mrs. Bowser answered the above questions and then sat down and wept. She had been pretty good, but she could have been better to Mr. Bowser. For instance, when he wanted to buy a chicken farm it was her duty to have been enthusiastic about it instead of figuring out that he was bound to lose $2,000 a year. His mangled remains were being hidden by the family now, and her conscience was crying out.

Eight o'clock, and no Bowser.

The cook came upstairs and said that she once had a sister who started out to buy a forty-nine cent corset and was missing for months and months. Finally a man was about to be hanged for murder and confessed that he had decoyed the woman into a cooper shop to get a glass of soda, and that while she was drinking it and exclaiming "Yum, yum," between swallows he struck her seven blows with a five cent tack hammer and then sold her body for a mummy. Could Mr. Bowser be antisocial? Did he drink beer and water? If he drew a blow from a tack hammer coming could be sidestepped? Would anybody buy him for a mummy if he was dead?

Half past 8, and the sisina was becoming intense.

Nine o'clock, and the police telephoned that a man had just leaped from the forty-eighth story of a skyscraper and that his remains had been picked up in a hat. It was supposed to be a case of unrequited love. Might it not be Mr. Bowser, what did she think?

Half past 9, and Mrs. Bowser called up the family doctor on the telephone.

DR. SOKER ON THE PHONE.

"Yes, this is Dr. Soker. What's wanted? Who is it? Oh, Mrs. Bowser, eh? Well, has Bowser started for the north pole yet? Hasn't come home this evening and you are worried? Don't you go into fits over Bowser. Never can tell what he'll do next, you know. Nonsense! He'll come home all right and explain things. May have stopped somewhere to look at a flying machine. Good night!"

Two o'clock, and Mr. Bowser. The winter winds moaned mournfully, and Mrs. Bowser thought of the distilled by stars and autos.

A quiet knock and the cook came upstairs to say that she had seen many mysteries in her life, but none to compare with this.

Hintonburg, Ont. (Special).—Every day furnishes fresh proof that the women of Canada can be cured of ailments which hitherto seemed to be incurable. One of the best of these cures is due to the use of the pills by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. And this place has a living proof of the power of Mrs. William Rousseau, of 37 Merton Street.

"I am well again," Mrs. Rousseau stated. "I was very ill. My trouble were painful. I suffered very much with my back. My head ached almost continuously. I could scarcely sleep. I used to be free from pain. I was very weak and run swell up, and this, too, gave me a great deal of annoyance and discomfort. I took Dodd's Kidney Pills and very soon commenced to improve. Three boxes cured me completely."

Nine-tenths of suffering women's trouble starts from diseased kidneys. The natural way to cure these is to take away the cause, that is, to ward off kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure diseased kidneys.

A Skilful Retreat

Things hadn't turned out too well with their love affair. The fatal word had just been spoken, and he was rejected. He rejected minor stored respectability before his listeners, and had to elaborate explanations of her decision. Below, the smooth waters of Ontario bay rested in awesome wonder. "I trust I have made myself sufficiently clear," he said. "Well, I would scarcely go so far," he answered, as his courage gradually returned. "It's but fair to give nature the credit for that," he added at his retreat in good order.

A Purly Vegetable Pill.—The chief ingredients of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are marmalake and dandelion, mint and purple root, perfumed with harness, in their action. They cleanse and purify and have a moist healthful effect upon the secretions of the digestive organs. The dyspeptic and all who suffer from liver and kidney ailments will find in these pills the most effective medicine in concentrated form that has yet been offered to the suffering.

How They Know

"Women are always talking about human nature. I should like to know how they know so much about it."

"That is easy."

"If I told you, would you mind, elucidating them?"

"Most of them are married to a bunch of it."

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians

One reason why the lazy man does not like to work is because work seems so obviously to belong to the other fellow and he is conscientiously regarding property rights.

Hard and soft corals both yield to Holloway's Corn Cure, which is entirely safe to use, and certain and satisfactory in its action.

"Oh, doesn't he?"

"No."

"Then let I do."

"Well, what?"

"Make a getaway."

A VENERABLE STATESMAN

Hen. Sir John Cartling Is Now & Very frail Old Man.

The L.-L. Sir John Cartling, K.C.M.G., who is reported to be in very weak condition at his home in London, has never rallied from the shock he received by the death, a couple of years ago, of Lady Cartling. Up to the time of Lady Cartling's death, Sir John retained a well preserved and robust appearance and showed no disposition which gave so conspicuous a mark of his long and illustrious career at Ottawa. Lady Cartling's death had simply a crushing effect upon the genial knight, and he had dwindled down to but a shadow of his former self in less than a year.

Two days ago before the Easter recess he went down from London to Ottawa to take his seat in the Senate and had to be assisted to his place before the session began. He was supported by his older friends with something like the smile of old days; but he was clearly beyond taking any interest in his proceedings. It is related that Sir John Macdonald, the first Prime Minister of Canada, was as kind and best loved as Sir John Cartling, as being "the kindest man and best fellow" he had ever known, in his Cabinet or out of it.

Sir John Cartling was born near London, Ont., in 1819, a newspaper boy, his parents being natives of Yorkshire, England. He sat in the old legislature of United Canada, from 1857 to 1867, and in 1869 was appointed Receiver of Public Revenue for Ontario. Macdonald was his superior. As during the time the legislation preliminary to Confederation was under discussion in the House of Commons he was an active and influential member of that body, Sir John can be said to be one of the founders of Confederation. At Confederation he had the honor of being elected to the House of Commons, and also to the Ontario Legislative Assembly.

He served as Commissioner of Agriculture and Public Works in the Sandfield Macdonald (Ontario) Government from 1867 to 1871, and entered Sir John A. Macdonald's (Dominion) Government as Postmaster-General, in 1872. He became Minister of Agriculture in 1885, and remained the responsible minister until the dissolution of Sir John Macdonald's government. The same year he was offered the appointment of Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, but he declined.

Father of the Game Laws.

The same game laws of Ontario and other provinces come under discussion and there is no doubt that many imagine the movement to be a modern one. The Quebec Telegraph, however, states that the laws originated in publishing commentaries based on the daily news of fifty years ago and states that the Hon. Col. Prince, a member of the old Parliament of Canada who was to represent Ontario in the House of Commons in 1867, was the father of the game laws. In 1869 he made a speech in the House of Commons in which he had already, in his opinion, been instrumental in bringing about the first code of laws, and in 1870 he introduced a bill to shorten the season during which game might be killed. He made a speech in support of his bill to pay more attention to this most important asset of the country, enlarging upon its value and its attractiveness to visitors and claiming that the sportsmen of the world were anxious to visit Ontario.

He instanced the butcher-like manner in which a number of men, including a hunting party, would hunt Indians to assist them in rounding up the animals and then shooting them down like oxen. He spoke of the system, as a shrewd, slaughtered almost as quickly as the slayer of animals in the West, which they rightly forbade result in the complete annihilation of the animals.

Homage to Titter.

This is what Lady Laurier, wife of the Premier of Canada, said to an interviewer recently in Denver:

"I haven't observed anything democratic in the ideas of America."

"What have been on this side?"

"I don't say it isn't mixed enough, but Americans display a far greater eagerness and awe for royal prerogatives than do Europeans. I should like to see more for royal prerogatives."

With regard to the money matters these nervous disorders and spring ailments becomes they actually make new, rich red blood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or $1.50 a box. From the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I never deny my wife a wish."

"Indeed?"

"No; I let her wish. It doesn't cost anything."

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house.

Many a girl would lie in a heap of the heat if she only had every young man she thinks she does.

HAIR GROWTH AND BEAUTY.

To prevent baldness and falling hair, remove dandruff, stop irritation and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap and occasional dressings with Cuticura Oil. Cuticura is equally effective on all else fails. Special and full directions accompany each package of Cuticura, or will be sent free on application to the Foster Drug & Chemical Company, 1000 Yonge St., Toronto. Treatment of eczema, rash, itching and chafings, for sanitary, antiseptic cleansing of ulcerated and inflamed mucous surfaces and for all purposes of the bath and laundry, these pure, sweet and gentle emollients are absolutely indispensable.

We Should Do Anything.

A public school teacher in Southern Manitoba one evening visited the home of one of her pupils. During her visit, she was greatly attracted by a small boy, who looked curiously at her, but did not speak. She asked him his name. "Frank," he said. With all the love of a teacher for a conqueror over the little folks, she coaxed, but in vain, until a happy thought struck her. She produced some chocolates, which she held up in a hand.

The little lad was not proof against anything so attractive as chocolates and went to her at once, and kissed her on the cheek.

His little sister had been watching him with considerable interest, and when she saw him spring into the teacher's arms and kiss her, she said, with a look of air of mystery: "Mrs. Frank would do just anything, for chocolates."

Groce Home For Girls.

The old Mother does herself an occasional benefit from her wayward children. The Birmingham Small Arms Co. has received an order for a large consignment of rifles, extending to 100,000, for the purpose of pro-vide employment for the next two months. The order is for cadet rifles for the Australian Government.

GIVEN UP BY HIS PHYSICIAN

"FRUIT-A-TIVES", THE FAMOUS FRUIT MEDICINE, GAVE HIS LIFE.

JAMES DINGWALL, Esq.

Willmington, Ont., July 27th, 1908.

"Will my life be given up by the carefree physician?"

"Sir John Cartling has never worked."

"A salary increase for himself."

"But he fought tooth and nail for adequate compensation for the underworld in his department."

"A man who worked for him at the City Hall got a plump turkey as often as Christmas came round."

"One cold day in winter the health officer called him round at the Smallpox Hospital. There had been a particularly virulent case of the disease and the victim had died. The health officer was at the time short-handed, and there was nothing to lay the victim out—she was a woman—except a nurse and the ambulance driver. The body was in such a repulsive condition that the two had been driven from the room after closing the window in the vain effort of sterilizing the atmosphere by frigidity."

The doctor was appalled by the sight.

"All right," said he. "It's a horrible job, and you only get $15 a week. Leave it to me."

And he entered the death-chamber, removed the frozen body, closed the eyes of the corpse, straightened out her limbs and arrayed the body decently for burial.

Smallpox has no personal terrors for Charles Sheard, M.D., but as a physician he dreads it above all other diseases. He has put up the most strenuous resistance to it in his capacity as a health officer, and Toronto's particularly low smallpox record is a lasting monument to his painstaking ability. Persons who are indifferent to such a scourge as smallpox are to him, but his reliance is based solely upon precautions. Charles Sheard's left arm from wrist to shoulder is a mass of scars, the result of repeated inoculations for smallpox, and he has not had a single attack of the disease since.

He has, however, had smallpox.

SUMMIT HOTEL, CROW'S NEST, B.C.

Situated exactly on the highest point of the divide of the Rocky Mountains, on the Crow's Nest Pass division of the C.P.R., in B.C., the Summit House—here pictured, and of which Andy Good, a famous hunter and trapper, is proprietor, claims a unique distinction. When it rains in the mountains, the rain falling on the Eastern slope of the Summit Hotel roof trickles away to join a tiny rivulet which in due process of time and evolution mingle its waters with the broad Atlantic. The water caught beyond the ridgepole flows westerly to a spring fed mountain stream and ultimately into the Pacific Sea.
